MOSQUITO BITES.

"I should love the country if there were not so many beasts in it," a girl said the other day as she put the finishing touches to her packing.

She was going to spend the summer in Canada fishing where the mosquito and a species of black fly vie with each other in attentions to the unwary.

Of the 2 evils the fly is certainly the one to be avoided, for its bite leaves a small triangular scar, which is both unsightly and painful. Visitors, until they learn wisdom, are perfect martyrs to this pest.

There seems to be no satisfactory explanation why some people are a source of attraction to mosquitoes and even more obnoxious insects while others go scot free from such annoyance.

Pennyroyal is a most effectual and harmless means of defence, for, warned by the smell, the mosquito will not approach its neighborhood. At night it should be put over the face and hands, and even the arms, if they are exposed.

It will not injure the skin in any way, and the only unpleasant thing about it is the smell. It may be sprinkled on the pillow or a handkerchief by those who object to having it over the face, but it is not, of course, so efficacious used in this way, as it evaporates quickly.

Spirits of peppermint may be used if preferred, but it should not be put on the face, because of its drying effect on the skin. A sprig of mint laid on the pillow is a pleasant remedy.

Pyrethrum is, of course, excellent. Take a tablespoonful and build it into a little pyramid on a plate or a piece of tin; then apply a match and leave the powder to smoulder, having first closed windows and doors.

The fumes and smoke will stupefy and bewilder both mosquitoes and flies and they will not prove for some time even when ventilation is again established in the room.

Some spirits of camphor should always be within reach in the summer months and if applied at once will allay the irritation caused by a mosquito bite and, being antiseptic, will heal it very quickly. Tobacco protects the smoker only, and the person seated nearest to him falls a victim to a double share of torture.

Freckles have been cured by a good healthy coat of tan, but a face that freckles seldom gets sunburnt. For use on the skin in summer there is nothing superior to almond cream. It keeps both face and hands in perfect condition, particularly in places where the water is hard or contains iron. And for those who play golf, tennis, or do any rowing it will prevent the formation of blisters and hangnails.

"PUNCH" MAKES A JOKE.

He—Yes. If her marriage doesn't turn out well, she'll only have herself to blame.

Wiggles—Do you believe that thirteen is an unlucky number?

Aggaggle—Not much. I was married on the 13th.—Somerville Journal.

EXECUTIVE

Rigid Bennington Investigation.

In a statement issued by Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte a promise was made to the public that in the investigation of the Bennington gunboat disaster nobody should be whitewashed and to the service he promised that nobody should be made a scapegoat. He said that the department was not yet ready to make any statement as to the possible or probable cause.

Paul Jones' Body at Annapolis.

On the arrival of Admiral Sigsbee's fleet at Annapolis the body of John Paul Jones was transferred to a temporary receiving vault in the Naval academy grounds with full honors due to an admiral. The lead coffin in which the body rested for more than a century in a French cemetery had been resealed in an oak coffin, and this was covered with American flags. In about a year the remains are to be interred permanently in the crypt of the new abbey now under construction at the Naval academy, there to become the center of a group of immortals in American history.

The June Immigrant Record.

The department of commerce reports that 112,315 immigrants entered the ports of the United States during the month of June, an increase of nearly 37,000 compared with June of last year. It is notable that 300 Chinese were admitted, thus showing the effect of the more lenient policy.

Carter to Remain Governor.

After a conference with the president at Oyster Bay, Governor Carter of Hawaii said that the president would not accept his resignation and had persuaded him to remain at his post. He has still three years to serve.

FOREIGN

Komura at New York.

Baron Komura, foreign minister and chief plenipotentiary of Japan, on reaching New York with his suit was met by the resident Japanese officials and a group of Japanese merchants. Speaking for the baron, Mr. Sato said that the war had already cost 570,000 men, of whom 370,000 were Russians. The Japanese expenditure of money was estimated at $700,000,000, and it was the intention of Japan to ask an indemnity to cover all losses rather than the assurance of withdrawal from the disputed territory.

Baron Komura is regarded as one of Japan's greatest statesmen, all the more because he is not one of the four feudal clans and has forced his way upward on merit. In his youth he was sent to Harvard university by his government for five years. On his way here the baron resolutely declined to discuss the war, but said that Japan was full of hope and that the world would gain by her conflict with Russia. He said that victory could never have been won by his people except for three things—namely, a just quarrel, a pure public service and a simple life. The so-called yellow peril was wholly the creation of the imagination on the part of some interested people of Europe. The baron, accompanied by Minister Takahira, the other peace envoy, went promptly to meet the president at Oyster Bay.

During the visit President Roosevelt urged that the envoys ask their country to grant an armistice or at least stop hostilities pending the outcome of the peace conference.

Swedish Ministry Resigns.

After the committee appointed by the riksdag to deal with the separation crisis had reported against the bill proposed by the government the cabinet relinquished office. The committee was willing to negotiate with Norway for a separation if the newly elected storting should request a repeal of the act of union or if such request were made after a plebiscite of the Norwegian people had declared in favor of it. Certain terms of separation were proposed by the committee, including the establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier free from fortifications, the right of pasturing reindeer in Norway by Swedish Laplanders, unobstructed transit through both countries and an arbitration convention. The report of the committee was accepted by the riksdag.

Meeting of the Czar and Kaiser.

With all Europe on tiptoe of curiosity and expectancy at the critical moment preceding the peace conference and following the zemstvo congress' appeal to the people of Russia, Emperor William of Germany, on board the Hohenzollern, and Czar Nicholas, on the Polar Star, held a secret conference in the gulf of Finland. Numerous guesses have been made about this interview, most of which said that the kaiser had advised peace and reforms.

Balfour Refuses to Quit.

Premier Balfour's answer to the majority vote raised by the opposition was that the government refused to resign on the ground that the vote was inconclusive. For holding on to office he was bitterly criticised by the Liberal and Irish leaders, although it was apparent to all that the government could still command a majority with due opportunity for assembling its forces in the house.

Japan Welcomes Taft.

The people of Japan have accorded a tremendous and unprecedented welcome to Secretary of War Taft and his party, including the president's daughter, upon their arrival at Tokyo. Signs of cordiality were displayed everywhere, and every possible mark of honor and affection was shown, even to the opening of the private gardens of the mikado.

Investigating Town Topics.

The examination of the books of the Town Topics company by the New York law authorities not only disclosed a long list of prominent men and women who had paid large sums for a subscription to the unpublished society book known as "Fads and Fancies," but also implicated Justice Denel inferentially by showing that he had been receiving a salary of $1,200 from the company, presumably for legal advice. Colonel W. D. Mann, the proprietor of the alleged blackmailing sheet, got home from Europe and asserted that all of these various transactions were strictly legal. Incidentally he remarked that both President Roosevelt and ex-President Cleveland had sent their photographs and life sketches to be included in the book. This was contrary to the denial issued for the president at Oyster Bay. The books of the Town Topics people, were also inspected by the district attorney. It was estimated that the eighty persons who had subscribed to "Fads and Fancies" had given up $140,000.

Another Stay For Patrick.

Judge O'Brien of the New York court of appeals has granted a motion for a stay of execution for a reargument of the case against Albert T. Patrick, condemned to death for the murder of William Rice. This is the third delay in the execution of the death sentence while he has been confined in the death house at Sing Sing for the past three years.

Murderer Hoch Reprieved.

Just as the march to the gallows in the Chicago jail was about to begin for Johann Hoch, convicted of murdering one of his numerous wives, Mrs. May Wilson offered to supply the money necessary for an appeal to the higher court. The hanging was then delayed two hours for communication with Governor Deneen, who later granted a reprieve of thirty days.

Extra Session Nov. 11.

It was announced at Oyster Bay that the president had decided to call an extraordinary session of congress, beginning Nov. 11. This will be after the president's southern trip. The message is expected to lay stress upon the necessity of railway legislation, attention to the Panama canal needs and the Chinese boycott.

La Follette on Rockefeller.

In an address at the Galesburg (Wis.) Chautauqua Governor La Follette of Wisconsin said that the representative character of our government was in greater peril than at any time before in its history. He insisted that the Illinois law of freight rates was not being enforced and said he would like the job of hanging Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central, for obliging the people to submit to such inferior accommodations. Of John D. Rockefeller he had this to say: "Rockefeller gives lots of money, but he is in all kinds of business, strangling and throttling one after another, and if he could live a million years he could not expiate for the crimes committed by robbing his competitors."

Porto Rico Seeks Home Rule.

Delegates representing sixty-five municipalities in Porto Rico, selected from both political parties, have assembled in convention at San Juan and drawn up a memorial to congress. It complains that the power of the executive council appointed by the president is still preponderant. It proposes that a senate be organized with two members from each of seven districts and that the heads of departments be named by the president with the consent of this senate. Municipal autonomy is also desired. The movement was initiated by Mayor Todd of San Juan with a view to stemming the tide of anti-American feeling. One result was the organization of the Porto Rico Municipal league, headed by Mayor Todd.

Senator Mitchell Sentenced.

At Portland, Ore., United States Senator John H. Mitchell was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to serve six months imprisonment for having used his office to further the law practice of the firm of Mitchell & Tanner. The execution of the sentence was deferred pending a review of the case by the supreme court, and Mr. Mitchell is free under $2,000 bail. In pronouncing the sentence Judge D. Haven said that he had given consideration to the age of the defendant in mitigation of punishment, also to the fact that he is forever disqualified from holding office. The maximum penalty is two years and $10,000 fine.

Cotton Leak Witnesses Flee.

Just as the grand jury investigation of the agricultural department's fraud cases had got under way it became known that John Hyde, former statistician of the department, had got away from two agents of the secret service and had sailed for Europe, while the former associate statistician, Holmes, was believed to have fled to Canada. One disclosure made by the investigation was that the woman mentioned as having extraordinary power in the department was found to have borrowed money extensively from Hyde on notes indorsed by Holmes. At the same time the resignation of Mrs. Bertha Burch, who was stenographer to Mr. Hyde, was accepted by Secretary Wilson. She is said to have been the woman with the power behind the throne during Hyde's administration. Frederick A. Peckham and Moses Haas, New York cotton brokers, refused to answer questions put by District Attorney Beach and were required to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. They refused even to admit that they were acquainted with Holmes.

Political

Douglas Shy of Presidency.

In explaining to a committee of Democrats why he could not change his resolution against a second candidacy, Governor Douglas of Massachusetts said that if he ran he would be re-elected and that there was already talk of booming him for president of the United States in case of his reelection as governor of Massachusetts. The possibility of his being nominated and elected to the chief magistracy of the nation was distasteful to him and to his family; hence he must do all that was possible to discourage it.

Religious

Adler's Idea of God.

Expressing dissatisfaction with the existing "mush of religious sentiment" and with the "vague, blurred outlines of thought on the greatest of all subjects," Professor Felix Adler in his latest book, "The Religion of Duty," affirms three beliefs which he cannot give up while retaining a courageous attitude toward life. They are, "The idea of righteousness, the idea that justice will gain the ascendancy, and that there is a sublime purpose in things." He believes that there is a higher being, "an ultimate divine reality in things," but this being "is not a man, is not he or she or it, did not make the world as a carpenter makes a table or as an architect builds a house." On moral grounds only he assumes the existence of such a being, for there is a power back of the effort toward righteousness which gives effect to it beyond our finite power. The form of theism he cannot use, but accepts the content. As to creeds, Dr. Adler contends that as opposed to the scientific certainty of agnosticism there is a moral certainty based on truth necessarily inferred from moral experience, and in affirming the existence of a higher power he takes a step beyond the agnostic.

HEALTH THROUGH HYGIENE.

By Dr. Emma E. Walker.

The chief test of the value of general exercises is the number of muscles which it brings into play. Rowing meets this test perhaps better than any other sport. There is hardly a muscle in the body which does not play in part.

The abdominal muscles are called upon in the forward swing, while in the backward pull the long back muscles are brought into use. The quick "fisherman's stroke" will develop the biceps of your arms, while your long steady pull, with feet well braced, makes your thighs hard and firm.

Vary your stroke, and learn to pull against the elements, wind and tide, in all kinds of weather.

Rowing gives a certain vigorous grace which is inimitable. The forward and backward swing form a pendulum-like movement which centres in the hips. And grace in walking, you know, is absolutely dependent upon a free play of the hips.

The breath comes and goes in harmony with the motion. Note how the breath is held at the height of the exercise, as you are giving the pull; how you breathe in as you lean forward for the stroke; how you breathe out after the pull.

Although so many muscles are brought into play, the exertion is well distributed, and so causes no great local fatigue.

Rowing improves the carriage, making it graceful and erect. It arches the chest and makes it strong. It quickens the circulation and increases the activity of the skin. It is fine for deep breathing, and so purifies the blood.

For the girl who is too fat, it is excellent, for this extra tissue will be quickly used up.

As in other exercises, rowing should be properly done, or harm may result. If you bend your head over, and crook your back, and contract your chest, your arms will do all of the work and the other muscles will gain no benefit. It is a great mistake to think that the arms bear the brunt of this exercise.

A good rower always sits well. If you can see the attitude of the rower before she begins her work, you can almost invariably tell the kind of stroke that will follow. The back should always be held rigid, and the swing should come from the hips.

The art of pulling evenly and equally with both hands is the result of long practice. The shoulders should be braced when the oar grasps the water.

When you are rowing, you are breathing air that is absolutely free from dust, and the farther you go from the bank the purer and more invigorating the air. You are giving your lungs a refreshing bath with every breath you draw.

You should wear flannels whenever you row. The English are far more sensible than we are in regard to their dress.

Rowing should not be begun too young on account of the strain on the joints and those with weak lungs and heart should be very cautious about indulging in this exercise.

In the healthy girl, rowing will develop presence of mind, endurance, alertness, grace and pluck.

ROPING A BIG BEAR.

"In the winter of 1897," said Tim Kinney, a ranchman of Rock Springs, Wyo. "the bears in Butter Creek were surely a nuisance to the stockmen. I lost so many calves that I got fighting mad, and declared war on the four-footed desperadoes."

"One day my foreman and I were out rounding up a herd of beefs when in a low, marshy spot we came across one of the biggest bears I ever saw. Unluckily, we didn't have either rifle or revolver, but as I looked at the beast and thought of my dead calves my dander got up, and it occurred to me that we might throw our lariats over him and hold him until some way of executing the death penalty could be found."

"We thought it was a picnic, and so it was, as far as throwing a rope over Mr. Bear was concerned. My man got his rope over the enemy's neck and I got him around one leg. It looked as though we had him. Dismounting I made the end of my lariat fast to the stump of a tree but the foreman stepped on his pony. Grabbing a huge rock, I got quite close to the brute and dealt him a terrible blow in the forehead. With a howl of rage he gave a mighty lunge that broke the rope from the tree and started after me."

"But for the tremendous efforts of my companion, who still maintained his hold, I would have been caught and killed before I could have been able to reach my pony. As it was, the shave was extremely close, and the bear was right at my heels as I got in the saddle."

"All this time the foreman was tugging and hauling manfully, and if he hadn't been both strong and skilful I'd have never lived to tell this yarn. In a few minutes I managed to get another piece of rope and this time old Silver Tip was unable to break the fastening. Both of us then assaulted him with stones and beat him into insensibility before administering the coup de grace with a hunting knife."

HIS QUEER WAY.

Mr. Terwilliger was the busiest man in the neighborhood. He was always tinkering at something or other about his house. At one time it would be a device by which he could lower his window in the morning without getting out of bed. At another time it would be a system of weights and pulleys for managing his furnace in the basement from the floor above.

He worked for weeks on a windmill designed for raising the water from his cistern to a tank on the roof of his house, and devoted an equal length of time to an automatic dumbwaiter connecting the pantry with the kitchen and dining room.

"Why are you forever doing this sort of things?" an inquisitive neighbor asked him one day.

"To save labor, of course," said Mr. Terwilliger, surprised at so unnecessary a question.—Youth's Companion.

The Lawrence Water Supply.

It is announced in the daily papers that the officials of Lawrence are to come to Andover to again beseech the officials of the town for a cup of cold water.It is an innocent and touching proposition which certain interests of Lawrence have framed as bait for their country neighbors in the present distressing condition of things in our neighboring borough. "We are in dire straits," they say, "and in the emergency we seek your temporary aid." For four years they have felt the "emergency", and for nearly two years they have been begging their neighbors to meet it for them. The highest authority in the State has told them that the solution of their difficult problem lies in a new filter, and that the water from such a source when properly filtered is of the highest standard of purity.For four years the cheapest and weakest political interests in the city have succeeded in making their opinions of greater weight than the opinions of the State officials, and, by all kinds of wire pulling and manipulation, they have succeeded in blocking every attempt to build a new filter.
The efforts to find driven well water,
and to induce either Andover or North Andover to solve their difficulty for them, are but schemes to still further play politics with the great and important brand of the public service in Lawrence.North Andover has already twice turned down their request, and And-overance. We do not pretend to suggest what the Andover officials may do at the second conference, but we are quite thoroughly convinced as to the sentiment of the town. Most of our citizens are very familiar with the parable of the foolish virgins, and are pretty well convinced that this isn't the time, nor is there any good and valid reason for treating the bad provider in municipal matters differently from the way in which the Master treated the foolish virgins whose lamp went out for want of proper foresight.

Editorial Cinders.

In our "Play School Notes" we discover this week that kindness to all out-of-door life is taught to the children,
"even to a worm." Now, while we have most hearty interest in almost anything that our excellent managers of the Play School are doing, we do object to this. Pray, how will our rising youth bait his fish hook in years to come if he must be "kind" to the worm? Must we learn after all these days that it hurts the poor creature of mud and water to be twisted upon a fish hook and spat upon? Alas for our traditions and sweetest childhood memories if we may not dig in the orchard and use the fruits of our labors in feeding the fishes!Not all trespassers steal apples. Some of them sit on other people's doorsteps, roost on their neighbor's fences and walks, or use their yards for short cuts and the like. We are obliged to believe that the tendency toward this kind of trespassing is growing in Andover. Perhaps it is only a season's activity, but if it should continue to increase there will be no bearing its many offensive features for some of the Main street residents, where the abuse is the most flagrant.

"LOOK PLEASANT NOW!"

Fake Photographer Works Clever Game in Town and Finds Many Victims.A clever swindler has been working in several portions of the town recently and from all reports has been harvesting
a good supply of change from the unsuspecting public.His method was one which has been tried here and in other towns before with varied success and is very simple.
When he visited here he was neatly dressed and was a smooth talker. He said that he represented a photographing company which had recently opened a studio in Lawrence. To introduce their fine work he said that he was making a house-to-house canvas taking orders for photographs which he would come and take himself on the following Sunday. To bind the contract he said that twenty-five cents would have to be deposited with him. This seemed a small sum and he found many who gladly gave him the amount.When Sunday came many families remained indoors awaiting the photographer. As the hours wore along they became suspicious of the fraud and many realized that they had been deceived. No complaints have been made to the police yet and it is probable that none will be made.The Abbott Village district seems to have been the easiest for the fraud, several families having been visited and many orders given.

Tooth Birthday Service.

A service was held in the Edwards
Church in Northampton last Sunday morning, conducted with special reference to the 100th birthday of Mrs. Drusilla Hall Johnson of Florence, mother of Herbert S. Johnson of this town.
Mrs. Johnson's son and grandson, both priests of the Episcopal Church, had charge of the service. Her son, Rev. Dr.
Myron A. Johnson of Northampton, was the officiating clergyman and the sermon was preached by Rev. Walter DeForest Johnson. The vested choir of St. John's Church furnished the music.After the service Mrs. Johnson held an informal reception in the front of the church, when she greeted many friends, some of whom she had not seen for many years. At the conclusion she was escorted to a large automobile and whirled to her home in a vehicle which was not even dreamed of by the most intelligent person 100 years ago.On Monday a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Johnson, when members of the family from far and near were present to extend congratulations to the venerable lady. Speeches were made by prominent members of the family. Herbert S. Johnson attended from this town.

MRS. ANNA (CLEMENT) BERRY.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Anna (Clement) Berry were held at her home on Chestnut street last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.
Revs. Clark Carter and F. R. Shipman had charge of the service, which was simple and touching. Mr. Shipman spoke in loving remembrance of the deeds well done by the deceased, of the beautiful character which made a loving wife and mother, an ever ready friend and helper.The Gilbert quartet feelingly rendered
"Lead Kindly Light" and "Asleep in Jesus."The remains of Mrs. Berry reposed in a casket completely surrounded by beautiful floral tributes, which silently spoke of the love and respect in which the deceased was held.Brief committal services were held at the grave in Spring Grove cemetery.
The body was laid to rest beside that of her daughter Susan, who died in childhood.The bearers were four brothers, Walter Donald of Andover, Millard A. Clement of Bradford, Harrison A. Parker of Reading and George A. Clark of Somerville.A large delegation from the John Adams Chapter, D. A. R., of Boston, were present, the deceased having been a prominent member of that organization. She was also an active member of the November Club and a deaconess of the Old South Church and a member of the Women's Union.

Wedding

BARTON-BECKET

The announcement that Frank Harry Barton, son of E. Rhodes Barton, master mechanic of the Tyer Rubber Company, had been quietly married in Haverhill
on Saturday last to Miss Alice Marie Becket, a member of the Canobie Lake Opera Company, was received with no little surprise by friends of the family on Monday evening, when the event became generally known.Mr. Barton met Miss Becket, who is decidedly pretty, early in the summer
when the season first opened at Canobie Lake Park. At that time they were very much attached to each other and have been as much as possible in each other's company ever since. The son's affection for Miss Becket was not unknown to his parents nor was the wedding wholly a surprise to them. Upon the arrival of the couple at the young man's home, 75 Elm street, Monday evening, they were given a very cordial welcome. After supper Mr. and Mrs.
Barton returned to Canobie Lake.Mrs. Barton will leave the stage at the expiration of her contract with the Canobie Lake Company next week.The happy event took place on Saturday, when at the close of the afternoon performance, they sojourned to Haverhill, accompanied by Miss Marion Ashton and Charles Morton, who had become friends of the couple, and having previously procured a license, they were married at 6 o'clock in Trinity Church
by the pastor, Rev. William Osborne Baker.The bridegroom was a member of the class of 1902, Pynchard High School.
He is employed as a machinist with his father.The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Antoinette Becket of 120 Garfield avenue, Revere.The social mentors of Revere Beach were surprised Tuesday morning when it was learned through a press dispatch from Andover that Miss Becket had been quietly married to Mr. Barton without previously notifying either her relatives or any of her Revere admirers.
Miss Becket went to Canobie Lake at the opening of the summer season as a member of the chorus of a light opera company appearing at Canobie Lake Park. She is 19 and made her first appearance on the stage last winter with the chorus of a company playing in Boston.Mrs. Antoinette Becket, the bride's mother, received her first intimation from her daughter regarding the wedding when she was called to the telephone at a drug store on the beach, Tuesday. The message was so unsatisfactory that Mrs. Becket was in some doubt whether or not there had been a mistake.Mrs. Barton adopted the stage as a profession against the wishes of her mother. The family has lived at Revere beach since she was four years old. After she graduated from the Revere schools
she studied shorthand and bookkeeping
in a Boston business college for a year then became stenographer for a short time.All the time her mother was trying to make her a bookkeeper the daughter had a desire to go on the stage. She has a good voice and sings prettily. She has an older sister who travels as a member of a woman's orchestra.When the chance came last winter to become a chorus girl in Boston, Mrs.
Barton seized it, and it was expected that she would join the Vokes company, with which a number of Revere Beach girls have made their debuts, but the marriage may make a change.

Play School Notes

The first issue of the Play School Chronicle appeared on Tuesday. The paper is made up of four pages, with reading matter and advertisements. The former was set wholly by the children of the school, while the instructor set the advertisements, which were solicited by Roy W. Rhodes. The management of the paper feels grateful to the many business men who helped in the work by the contribution of their advertisements.A generous gift of books, games, etc., from Miss Susan Blake is gratefully acknowledged by the Play School.An entertainment for the children is being held this afternoon in Pynchard hall, through the courtesy of Miss Mabel Carter and Miss Butterfield, assisted by Mrs. Scott and Miss Smart.Sloyd is still very popular with the boys, and many useful articles have been made. Many have made stretchers for butterflies, moths, etc., thus adding much to the benefit and pleasure of insect collecting.Out-of-door lessons are given frequently, aiming to observe living things and teach kindness to even a worm.Miss Constance Somers has generously volunteered to teach vocal music to a

Is there no heat with a gas stove?

Of course there's heat—the very best and most effective kind.

It's heat that heats the food, and not the whole house.

It is not fickle heat. You can depend on it absolutely. You can have several degrees of heat (for several kinds of cooking) at the same time.

Each flame is as steady as clockwork.

ANDOVER A. A. 9; PROSPECTS 9.

The Andover Athletic association baseball team defeated the Prospects of Lawrence easily on the Playstead last Saturday afternoon 9 to 0. The home team easily outplayed their opponents in batting and fielding and their team work showed a marked improvement over last week, especially in the former department.

Lamb was rather easy for the locals to find, 12 hits being made off his delivery. Hilton in three innings held the visitors down to two hits while Moynihan who took his place allowed them only five.

In several innings the Prospects succeeded in getting men on the bases but not once were they able to cross the plate. In the eighth inning a fine throw by Maloney cut off a run at the plate just in time.

"THE PEARL AND THE PUMPKIN"

KLAW & ERLANGER'S GREAT NEW ENGLAND PRODUCTION AT THE COLONIAL THEATRE, BOSTON.

The brilliant engagement of Klaw & Erlanger's great production of the New England spectacle, "The Pearl and the Pumpkin," at the Colonial Theatre in Boston, is rapidly drawing to a close, and only a few more weeks remain in which to witness this most extraordinary entertainment. New Englanders should not neglect the opportunity to see what is undoubtedly the most unique and beautiful entertainment that has been placed before the public in years. It has drawn great audiences, and people have been attracted from far and wide by its wonderful features. The story of "The Pearl and the Pumpkin" tells of an imaginary pumpkin famine that came to New England, during which period only one person was able to raise them all the way from Maine to Connecticut. The consequences are set forth in an indescribably amusing manner. The play itself is one of the funniest ever written and it is mounted and costumed in such a manner that whole columns have been devoted by the Boston newspapers to its remarkable pictorial charm. Yankees, fairies, pirates, pookwuggies, corn dodgers and other characters, fanciful and real, mingle together and there is the magical transformation of one Yankee into a "pookin-head." Klaw & Erlanger, who are world-famous for their great productions, have never scored a greater success than with this, and it will never be forgotten by those who witness it. Orders for seats from out-of-town may be sent to the manager of the Colonial Theatre, Boston. The scale of prices is $1.50, $1.00, 75, 50 and 35 cents, and remittances should be made by express or post office order.

The furniture of ex-Principal F. O. Baldwin, which has been stored in Messer's storeroom for some time, was removed Tuesday to Wellesley by Tuttle's express.

NEW TABLE OF RATES

To be Presented at a Special Meeting of Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum

The following will be of interest to local members of Andover Council of the Royal Arcanum:

For the purpose of agreeing upon a satisfactory rate table to substitute for the new rates which have met with such opposition from the members of the Royal Arcanum, committees of three from jurisdictions all over the country will meet within two weeks in New York.

The committee will endeavor to agree upon a table, which they will present before the special meeting of the supreme council which Supreme Regent Wiggins has announced that he is going to call. The supreme council will be strongly urged to substitute whatever plan is agreed upon for the new rates which are causing the protest.

The idea of holding this committee meeting was started by the "committee of fifteen," which represents Massachusetts protesters, and which has set the lead for other states throughout the country in working against the new rates. Since the definite announcement from Supreme Regent Wiggins of Rome, N. Y., that he has received enough requests from supreme representatives to authorize him to call a supreme council special meeting, the "committee of fifteen" and other protesting committees in other states have begun upon the hardest part of their labors, namely, the origin of a rate table which will be satisfactory to all the jurisdiction as a substitute to the objectionable ones. The "committee of fifteen" has been in correspondence with other jurisdictions, and New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Wisconsin and New Jersey have agreed already to send committees to New York city, and it is expected that all or nearly all of the other states will do the same.

After the committees have agreed upon a new table they will do their best to have such table adopted by the supreme council, and if the latter refuses to rescind the objectionable rates and listen to suggestions the matter will be taken before the courts. On the other hand if the committees of three fail to agree upon any one table they will simply try to get the objectionable tables rescinded and to continue with the old table and extra assessments until a satisfactory plan can be agreed upon. There is thought to be little likelihood of the last-named possibility happening, however.

Members of the Royal Arcanum who have kept closely in touch with the conditions are of the opinion that the table finally adopted will be "Option A" of the new rates, applied to assessed ages instead of attained ages. Applied to attained ages, as the objectionable rates had planned, "Option A" was one of the highest of new tables but, applied to assessed ages, it has, in the opinion of a large number of members, the advantages necessary to put the order on a strong and permanent basis. "Option A," a constant rate for life, is as follows:

Age	For $500 monthly	For $1000 monthly	For $1500 monthly	For $2000 monthly	For $3000 monthly

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Passenger Rates Still Lower.

To keep pace with the rates promulgated by the Pennsylvania and other eastern roads the Michigan Central came down to the basis of $16 from Chicago to New York and Boston. Promptly the Grand Trunk, Erie, Wabash and Nickel Plate roads put in new rates on a basis of $14 to New York and $13 to Boston in order to maintain a differential of $2 to New York and $3 to Boston. Thus the queer effect was a cheaper rate between Chicago and Boston than between New York and Chicago. The Michigan Central was expected to make a still lower drop.

Linseed Oil Trust Supreme.

The three independent manufacturers of linseed oil at Buffalo—Spencer Kellogg, Mann Bros. and Hauenstein & Co.—have closed their factories owing to the monopolistic methods of the American Linseed Oil company, controlled by Rockefeller interests. The independents say that the trust has so much flaxseed on hand that they are afraid to buy. About 1,000 men will be thrown out of work by this shutdown.

Large Steel Earnings.

The quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation showed net earnings of $30,305,116 as compared with $23,125,896 for the preceding quarter. The regular dividend of 1 1/2 per cent was declared.

Erie Second Preferred Pays.

The directors of the Erie railroad have declared a 4 per cent dividend on the second preferred stock of the company, the first ever paid. This was in addition to the usual 4 per cent on first preferred. President Underwood announced that all the legislation had been obtained necessary to enable the company to proceed with extensive improvements, including the building of new terminals at New York and Jersey City.

Railway Sugar War Spreads.

The announcement of a big cut in sugar tariffs by the Southern Pacific company and the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe—namely, from 50 to 25 cents a hundred from San Francisco to the Mississippi—suddenly extended the area of the railroad sugar war which has been developing for some time. This means that the Spreckels interests are up in arms against the combination of eastern and southern roads with the American Sugar Refining company, or the trust. Cuts in the wholesale price of sugar have already been announced. In this war the eastern independent refiners are in league with Mr. Spreckels.

Mutual Reserve Now Under Fire.
The report of General Examiner Vanderpool of the New York department of insurance on the status of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance association discloses startling irregularities. The commission of $227,693.67 paid for securing a membership of the Northwestern company is shown to have gone to third parties and not to the Northwestern itself, and the persons thus reimbursed have not received any benefit from the premium paid by them.

Shaping Up the Equitable.

With the formal election of Paul Morton as president of the Equitable Life Assurance society that great financial institution entered on the final stage of its house cleaning. Mr. Morton himself is to receive a salary of $80,000 a year, instead of the $100,000 drawn by his predecessor, thus submitting to the 20 per cent cut which has been applied to the salaries of other officials. At the same time, the resignation of James W. Alexander was accepted and Mr. Morton resigned as chairman of the board, which position was abolished. It was generally agreed that hereafter it would be improper for the directors to engage in syndicate or other transactions involving the society's funds. A radical cut in pensions was made.

J. Wilcox Brown, a Maryland policy holder, has brought suit against the society asking the appointment of a receiver for the Equitable's assets and a winding up of the society's affairs. It is reported that Thomas F. Ryan is illegally conducting the business of the society by reason of his purchase of the Hyde stock.

INDUSTRIAL

Wabash to the Sea Sept. 1.

The Wabash railroad officials at Pittsburg have announced definitely that they would open a direct line to the seacoast by way of Burlington to Baltimore on Sept. 1 for freight purposes and that by Jan. 1 the line would be open for passengers.

Crops in Fine Condition.

The government weekly summary shows that the crop situation is generally favorable, the warm weather having caused a rapid growth of corn and enabled the harvesting of wheat in good shape except in Virginia, Maryland, Missouri and Texas. Improvement in cotton is neither general nor marked. Insects are causing considerable damage in Texas, where picking has begun. With the exception of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Wisconsin, adverse reports are received respecting apples from all quarters. The hay and oat crops are generally good.

New Cotton Acreage Report.

The revised report of the cotton acreage under the supervision of Assistant Secretary Hays and approved by Secretary Wilson shows that the figures in Mr. Hyde's hands, prompted by Holmes, were lower than the facts warranted. The report shows that the acreage planted in cotton this year should have been estimated at 85.1 of that planted last year, equivalent to reduction of 14.9 per cent, or 1,731,000. The total acreage this year is figured at 26,000,000.

Operators Storing Coal.

In expectation of a struggle with the miners' union next year, the great coal carrying railroads of the anthracite regions are steadily increasing their vast stores of surplus output. This fact is taken advantage of by the union leaders, who stimulate the activity on the part of the miners.

Forty Ton Blast at Portsmouth.

Henderson's point, which has been a menace to navigation in the harbor at Portsmouth, N. H., was removed by the discharge of forty tons of dynamite in the presence of more than 15,000 spectators. A huge mass of rocks and timbers was hurled into the air for a distance of 100 to 150 feet. The work of removing this ledge has been in progress for three years and is to cost $740,000. It will enable battleships of the largest size to approach the navy yard.

Midvale Armor Beats Trust.

The successful test of the Midvale armor plate at the Indian Head proving grounds demonstrates that a successful competitor has entered the field against the armor plate trust of the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies. The government has ordered from the Midvale company 450 tons with which to plate the battleships Mississippi and Idaho.

SOCIOLOGICAL

Medicine Advertisements Attacked.

Norman Hapgood has begun in Collier's Weekly a series of articles on what he regards as the criminal alliance between newspapers and patent medicine manufacturers. In connection therewith he is publishing in facsimile what he regards as objectionable advertisements in newspapers of high repute. He insists that the newspapers are responsible for much of the patent medicine swindling and that they hide behind the separation of editorial and business offices. He wants to know if there is any difference between gold brick doctors and gold brick medicine vendors. "A man is arrested," he says, "for practicing medicine without a license, but if he puts up a certain amount of wood alcohol and gives it an alluring name the government lets him prescribe it to people he has never seen. He is assisted by newspapers of every grade."

Millionaires as Mendicants.

The rule of the settlement workers that no man shall be given a bowl of soup or a night's lodging unless he has first done some manual labor to pay for it was the theme of a disturbing discussion at the New York School of Philanthropy when Miss Gertrude Barnum, head of the Woman's Trades Union League, asked to have established a "department" for investigation and suppression of vagrancy among the rich and mendicancy among the captains of industry. In explanation Miss Barnum told how during a recent visit near the country home of Mr. Astor she saw that wealthy gentleman playing tennis, playing golf, running an automobile and doing all sorts of things except working. She was told that he had never done a stroke of work in his life. She thought that this was fairly representative of the men of his class and that a wide field of mendicancy was being overlooked—namely, the beggary of getting something for nothing.

To War For Pure Food.

The National Food Manufacturers' association has just been organized with headquarters at Chicago for the purpose of protecting legitimate manufacturers of food and to carry the war for satisfactory legislation before the next congress.

For Immigration Convention.

The executive committee of the National Civic Federation has called a national convention Sept. 23 at New York to consider the proper distribution of immigrants. The governors of all states and the various associations interested in immigration are requested to send delegates. There are said to be 12,000 idle farms in New York state alone. The immigration bureau has statistics showing that 8,000 more Italians left the country last year than came into it.

SCIENTIFIC

Man Should Live a Hundred Years.

In an address to the public health congress at London Sir James C. Brown, the noted specialist in mental and nervous diseases, took issue with the Osler theory of human usefulness. He thought that much of the world's best work had been done by men over forty years old and quoted numerous instances to prove this. He declared that every man was entitled to a century of life and a woman to a little over a century. This, he said, could be reached only by faithful obedience to the laws of health and with simplicity and tranquillity in living.

Says Hilprecht Was Whitewashed.

The Rev. Dr. John P. Peters of New York, who as an Assyriologist of high reputation was prominent in the recent attack on the reputation of Professor Hilprecht in connection with the Nippur tablet library, has addressed an open letter to Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania, protesting that the investigation of Hilprecht, which resulted in his exoneration, was nothing less than whitewash.

Barton's Dirigible Balloon Tested.

The 127 foot airship designed by Dr. Barton at London, England, with a crew of five persons, has been tested with partial success. In a forty mile an hour wind the ship rose gracefully, but in spite of its fifty horsepower motor at each end the steers was only partially successful, as it was found impossible to come back to land at the point of starting.

THE FINE ARTS

Frohman's Season Leaders.

Charles Frohman, the theatrical manager, has returned from Europe and made a statement of his offerings for the coming season, the most important of which are: Maude Adams in Barrie's "Peter Pan," John Drew in a new American play by Augustus Thomas, Nat Goodwin in "Beauty and the Barge," a low comedy; Ethel Barrymore in Barrie's "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," Virginia Harned in a new play by Henry Arthur Jones, William Crane in "An American Lord," by Broadhurst and Dasey; Joseph Wheelock in George Ade's "The Varsity Man," Maxine Elliott in a new play by Clyde Fitch, Hackett and Manning in the "Walls of Jericho," William Gillette in his new play, "Clarence," a new poetical play in four acts called "Mizpah," by Eliza Wheeler Wilcox. Sothorn and Marlowe will continue their Shakespearean series.

Theater Trust Faces Rival.

The alliance of the Shuberts with Belasco and Fiske for the coming theatrical season makes it apparent that the Klaw-Erlander-Frohman combination, known as the trust, will not have the arrangement of the country's dramatic programme all to itself. Lee Shubert announces that the list of the independents includes Bernhardt, Carter, Fiske, Relan, Bates, Gailand, Anglin, Kailisch, Edwards, Russell, Warfield, Miller, De Wolf Hopper and Poy. Mr. Shubert says the circuit will touch the principal cities notwithstanding big gaps and that they are prepared for the expense and a finish fight for the right to do business and live. They propose to guarantee to playwrights and players a full theatrical season. What they need is more theaters in more large cities, and they propose to get them. Meantime they intend to find out in the courts if there is "one law for the Northern Securities company, for instance, and another for Klaw & Erlander."

A New Calve.
In the six months' tour of America for which Mme. Calve has been engaged she announces that she will give the world a new version of herself by singing folk songs of England, Ireland, Norway, Russia, Spain and Italy in the respective languages and costumes.

MISCELLANEOUS

Fever Isolates New Orleans.

New Orleans, in the clutch of the yellow jack, is shut off from intercourse with all the world. Thoroughly frightened by the daily increasing list of yellow fever cases in that city since the first case was identified in the Italian colony on July 21, the greater part of the south, Cuba and the Mexican coast have adopted stringent measures to avoid the transmission of the dread disease. Notwithstanding that the New Orleans board of health and the state board have begun a most strenuous campaign for cleaning the city and keeping the area of infection under control, a rigid quarantine has been established with shotguns by all the surrounding towns. By July 31 over 250 cases had been reported. The authorities have begun a house to house inspection and are using oil on the surface of all pools and cisterns to prevent mosquito infection.

Wireless Displacing Wires.

The government is preparing to install the wireless telegraph system throughout the lower Yukon region of Alaska, replacing land lines that have proved failures on account of the forest, flood and weather conditions.

Accidents.

The worst railway disaster that has occurred in England for fifteen years was the collision of a crowded electric train with an empty one on the Lancashire and Yorkshire railway July 27, resulting in the instant death of twenty-two persons and the injury of many. The steel frame of the front express car rose in the air and fell upon the passengers, and one or two cars caught fire.

A fire started in a tank of the Texas Oil company, at Humble, Tex., has caused the loss of eleven lives and property to the value of nearly a half million.

The revised official list of the casualties on the gunboat Bennington showed a total of sixty-one deaths, twenty-eight wounded and ninety-three uninjured. Fifteen were so seriously wounded as not to be expected to live.

Deaths.
Daniel S. Lamont, who was private secretary to Grover Cleveland during his first term as president and secretary of war during his second term, died suddenly at his home at Millbrook, N. Y. The funeral was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and many others of prominence.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private ills, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

MYSTERIES OF "WIRELESS."
"There is something awesome to me about this thing of wireless telegraphy," says a woman who has just returned from a fortnight in Boston. "It is uncanny to have messages come to one out of the empty air. When I was aboard a Fall River boat, going up to Boston, I felt less uneasy than I've ever felt before. If anything serious happened at home I'd know it before I landed. If the boat sank people on shore would know it the minute it happened. About 1 a. m. there was a knock at my stateroom door. I flew out of my berth and opened the window. A hand came out of the darkness and gave me an envelope. 'Wireless message,' said a voice. 'I knew instantly the matchbox I had carelessly left on my dressing table, and had set the house on fire. I tore the message open with trembling fingers. It was from my husband. 'Think of a man who would get you out of bed in the middle of the night with a wireless message not a word of bed in the middle of the night, and an attack of heart failure, but it's a wonderful thing that one can have comforting words like that hurled at one miles from land.'—Washington Post.

BETWEEN FRIENDS.
Singleton—Say, old man, I want you to do me a favor.
Weddery—What is it?
Singleton—You are married.
Weddery—Sure.
Singleton—Been married three times.
Weddery—I understand.
Singleton—That's the way it shows up on the records.
Singleton—Well, I'm thinking seriously of taking unto myself a wife and I want you to dissuade me from my purpose.—Chicago News.

WATTERSON ON PAUL JONES

Even Hanchette, the French naval authority, speaks of Jones as having died in great wretchedness, obscure and poor. It is such outrageous versions of truth that I have felt impelled to meet and combat.

After the war of the revolution Jones was received in London with the greatest distinction. The Army and Navy Club delighted to honor him. Burke and Fox were his familiars. Horace Walpole was his intimate friend. To them all he was "dear Paul."

The only act of "piracy" ever alleged against him was his descent upon Selkirk Castle, where some of his men, failing to find Lord Selkirk, carried away the family plate. Learning of the pillage, Jones immediately after getting back to Brest, purchased it out of his own pocket and returned it to Lady Selkirk with a letter of apology.

The Selkirks thence forward were among his most ardent admirers. In his last illness the king of France sent daily to ask for his health. Had he lived a week longer he would have been admiral of France. The French assembly rose upon its feet and stood uncovered while the resolution of respect was being passed. He left a large sum of money to his two surviving sisters. He died the ranking officer of the American navy.

Three weeks after his death letters came from Washington and Jefferson placing our marine interests in Europe in his hands and authorizing him to organize an expedition to go after the Barbary pirates. He stood after the relation of a son to Franklin, of a brother to Jefferson, possessing the fullest confidence of the Father of his Country. Whenever he appears upon the written page we see not only a naval commander but a statesman, his writing, in its calm wisdom and crystal lucidity, reminding us of the writing of Abraham Lincoln.

Personally he was the most captivating of men, handsome and gentle. When he came back from his wonderful sea fight the Duchess of Orleans lodged him in the Palais Royal. The king made him a chevalier of France. Paris went wild. In the court, in the highest French society, he was literally "a howling swell," though he himself did none of the "howling." There is not a blot on his escutcheon.

The day which witnessed the arrival of his remains in America should be celebrated all over the United States as a holiday.—Hendy Waterson in Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHAMPION-WATER DRINKER.

The champion water drinker of the world Samuel Julius Johnson, walked into the Globe office yesterday with a smile that was debonaire on his every feature and offered to bet $200 to $500 that he can drink more water in less time than any other man in the world.

"Isn't that rather a reckless bet, Samuel?" said the aquatic editor.

"Have you got the $200?"

"I can get it—but here ain't nobody will take me up 'cause they know I'm the champion water drinker."

"How are you on hard cider, Samuel?"

"I never drank no hard cider, but I drank 15 bottles of tonic ginger ale in less than 5 minutes on July 14 at Nantasket."

"You must be a human tank—don't it make you sick?"

"No, sir, I never been sick and I never had no doctor."

"How are you on whiskey and beer?"

"I'm a water drinker, you know. I'm not a whiskey drinker, nor a beer drinker."

"Yes, but on the level Sam, how much could you get away with on a pinch?"

"Sam thought a moment, scratched his head, and in a low, gentle voice said:

"Bout a quart."

"How much beer?"

"Bout 15 bottles. But you don't feel the same as you do when you drink water, water's the thing."

"How do you like your water, Samuel, cold, medium, or warm?"

"Just as it comes from the faucet. That suits me."

"You must drink great quantities of water this warm weather?"

"No, I drink about 10 quarts a day the year round, just to keep me in good condition, and I don't take no notice of the weather."

"How did you get this drinking habit?"

"Taint no habit. I'm a water drinker ever since I was a little slave child on master Billy atson's farm down in Centerville, Maryland. I always liked water ever since I was a child."

"Have you got the eating habit too?"

"I eat three square meals every day. 'Do they agree with you?'"

"They sure do."—Boston Globe.

CURIOUS HUNTING.

Marquis Kurda's pond is some 25 acres in extent. Around its entire circumference a great mound-like wall, some 15 feet in height has been torn up, and upon its summit and slopes a dense canebrake has been planted which rises some 30 feet from the air and absolutely cuts off all vision of the interior expanse of water. At intervals of some 30 yards, for half the circumference of the circle and on the landward side, ditches about six feet deep and five feet wide have been dug. These ditches, with the waters of the lake some 18 inches deep in them, about 100 feet long, bordered with earth, and sodded on each side some three feet above the surface of the surrounding land. When they enter the lake, two right-angled turns are made which assure a complete screening of the lake from any outside view, or vice versa.

A thousand tame ducks are kept in this lake to decoy the wild ones into the byway feeding-ditches.

When the ducks once enter the ditch and begin feeding, the warden pulls the bell wire and warns the host and his guests at his house several hundred yards away. As the birds approach, he pulls a second string which connects with and closes a light wire ditch where the ditch debouches into the lake. The ducks are thus trapped in a deep, narrow ditch, from which they have no escape, except in upward flight. The pestmen hurry to either side of the bank-protected ditch, and line out along its entire length with their long-poled nets held rigidly and their eyes fixed on the cut in the earth. A warden clings to the rear end of the ditch and cautiously peeps over. With a series of frightened squawks and a splashing and flapping of many wings, the terrified birds rise like bullets from the water, the nets sweep through the air, and are brought bottomside up on the rearward side, when a few of the most lucky and skilful are found to have a thrashing, loudly quacking duck enmeshed therein.—Harper's Weekly.

REPLEVINED HIS PET CUB.

Deputy Sheriff Mark Huson had a very unusual piece of professional work to perform the other day, the details of which were obtained largely from Mr. Huson himself. It seems that a man whose name is unknown, while coming in from Portage lake early last spring, caught a pair of young bear cubs, which he brought along and sold to William L. Fields, who lives on the north bank of the Androok river, about two miles above Washburn village.

Mrs. Fields let the little fellows play about the house and the front yard. They were very playful and soon became strongly attached to Mrs. Fields. One day Mr. Fields left home, shutting the cubs in the house. Along in the afternoon the cubs became restless and lonesome, the female succeeded in climbing out of an open window and scampering the river and hills for her beloved master, she saw a man at work on a farm on the opposite side of the river.

Scurrying through the grass to the shore, she swam the river. The man saw the cub coming, and caught her as she came from the water. The little animal appeared to be so friendly that the man started for his home in Mapleton bearing the cub in his arms.

A week later the man came to Presque Isle, looking for Judge George H. Smith, whose reputation as a lover of pets is widely known. He also had read of the judge's trouble in watching his bear hole, back of his house, where Sunday morning bears are baked, during the preceding night. The man fancied that the bear could be taught to watch over Judge Smith's estate and protect all things thereon.

Unfortunately the judge was absent and the man then tried to sell the cub to Hon. Charles F. Daggett, as an all-round useful animal to protect his beautiful lawn from the intrusions of young baseball players and dogs. Mr. Daggett, however, declined the proffered beast as an untried experiment.

In the meantime Mr. Fields had learned of the whereabouts of his little pet. As life had been made miserable for him because of the cries and wails both by day and night of the other cub over the loss of his sister, Mr. Fields sought out his pet, but the new owner would not consent to even show his cub to him. Then Mr. Field hurried over to Caribou and got a writ of replevin. Coming back to Washburn, he telephoned to Deputy Sheriff Mark Huson of this town to come to his assistance immediately, telling him of his writ of replevin. Mark was on hand at the appointed time and together they went to the man's house, where Mr. Fields recovered his missing pet without a struggle, much to the satisfaction of all concerned. The sheriff thinks it is the only case on record of replevining a bear under process of law.—Presque Isle correspondence in Bangor.

MICHAEL DWYER HELD IN $15,000 BONDS.

Michael Dwyer was arraigned in police court Monday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on James Webb who now lies in a most precarious condition at the General hospital. Dwyer pleaded not guilty and was held at $15,000 bonds, ten days bail.

The affair took place on Essex street Saturday night. There had been some blood existing between Dwyer and Webb, the result of a mixup at the gas company, where they were both employed, when Webb struck Dwyer on the shoulder with a piece of gas pipe, breaking his collar bone. The men have never been friendly since then and Dwyer has always held a hidden grudge against Webb.

Saturday night they were in McCarthy's barroom and the fight started there. They went outside and Webb started for home in company with a friend, Jeremiah Murphy. Dwyer followed them and in answer to a remark of Webb's to "go home and leave them alone," rushed at him with a knife and plunged it into Webb's body just below the heart. Dwyer then turned and ran up Essex street. He was pursued to the corner of Essex and Hampshire streets, where he was taken by Officers Vose and Hoar.

Webb when he was struck uttered a cry and fell to the sidewalk and was at once taken to the General hospital. An operation was performed by Dr. McAllister.

Dwyer is 26 years of age and resides on Myrtle street. He seemed downcast and sorry Monday and during the entire session held his head down.

LYNN NATIONALS SUFFER A DEFEAT.

Saturday the E. Frank Lewis baseball team sent the Nationals back to Lynn, defeated 7 to 2. The Shoe City team came to Lawrence accompanied by a brass band and a large number of supporters.

In the early part of the game the visitors' catcher was disabled by a foul tip and Bert Kelley of North Andover obligingly went in and caught a fine game, making a good catch of a foul ball after dashing through the crowd.

The fielding of both teams was good considering the large crowd. Lewis' work was excellent. Both pitchers filled their positions in excellent style. McGrady having eight assists and Eastman seven assists and one put-out. The fielding of Stark, Ahern and Turner and Sellers of the Lewis' team and McHovver and Nobles of the Nationals was good.

Sellers, Lee, Ahern, Turner and Osborn batted well. The score:

THE TRANSMITTER.

Lillian—Wasn't it sweet of your husband to send you a kiss by wire? Mabelle—I haven't decided yet. I am suspicious that telegraph operator was a woman.—Detroit Free Press.

"Yes," said the crooked legislator, "I'm opposed to the bill at present, but I'd change my mind for, say $1000."

"Indeed!" replied the lobbyist, "I don't doubt that such an exchange would benefit you. You needn't—don't appear to be worth that much."—Philadelphia Press.

Wigwag—Why do you insist upon carrying your shirt home from the laundry instead of having it sent?

Hardup—So that folks will know I have two.—Philadelphia Record.

LOWELL CORPORATION TO GO TO AMERICA WOOLEN CO.

LOWELL, July 31.—The Middlesex company, which it is reported here, will be absorbed by the American woolen company, was incorporated in 1830. Gen. B. F. Butler for many years before his death was a large stockholder of the company and it has been understood that a large proportion of the stock was owned by his family.

The paid-up capital of the company at the start was $100,000, which was afterward increased to $1,000,000. For 15 years after incorporation large dividends were paid, but during the panic of 1857 the machinery was stopped in the mills of the company.

At that time the company was reorganized with the capital reduced to $500,000. This was subsequently increased by stock dividends to $750,000. During the panic of 1874 work was not regular for employees and there have been stoppages several times since.

It was a surprise to many operatives when the order to stop was given some weeks ago, as there were many orders for goods on hand. The reason given was that the boilers needed repairing. It was a surprise also when the order was given Sunday night to resume work and many operatives who were not reached by overseers or second hands did not report until noon today. About 1000 operatives are employed.

No. 1 mill of the company is the largest owned by the corporation. It is 325 feet long, 50 feet wide and six stories high. It contains 150 looms and 624 spindles. The plant of the company is on the site of the first woolen mill constructed in this section in 1815. The meeting of the directors of the Middlesex company to consider an offer for the plant will be held in the Boston office of the company Tuesday morning. A meeting of the stockholders will then be called.

The stockholders of the Middlesex company were paid 6 percent dividends in 1898, 1899, and 1900 and 3 percent in December of 1901. Since that time the company has paid no dividends. The stock does not appear in the market very often, but the quotation of the last selling was $165 3/4 last year. The par value is $100 a share.

Representatives of the American woolen company have been in Lowell to examine the plant. Agent Saunders of the Middlesex company said today of the probable sale of the plant and the business which the corporation has been doing:

"We haven't paid any dividends for the last three or four years, but that was due to the fact that we were installing new machinery. The Middlesex company places on the market as great variety of goods as any company in this country. It is hard to get a large output because of the variety of goods which we are making. It has been said that the Middlesex company only produced flannel, but in our store-room we can show a variety of goods which any one familiar with the business will say it requires up-to-date machinery to make. Men have been here to examine our plant."

LIES OF THE NURSERY.

From the Paris Review.

A little boy took some money from a table. His father witnessed the theft and thinking to awaken the child's conscience, pretended that he believed the nurse was guilty, and feigned to send for the police, being confident that an innocent person's danger would bring the child to confess.

Immediately afterward, however, one knocker at the house door, and the parent's chagrin may be imagined when the child was heard calling to his sister: "Hurry up; the policeman is here. He says the policeman came to arrest nurse. What fun?"

Here is a pretty example of a child's astuteness and perverted moral sense, the heroine of which is somewhat cruelly held to be an embryo hysteric of the Hedda Gabler type.

Walking with her aunt in a friend's garden a little girl dropped and broke a flower. "Oh, they will scold me when we go back," said the child. "Not at all," she was assured. "I will tell them that it was an accident and say it was not your fault."

Whereupon the child returned quickly to the house and was sitting with her friends when her aunt appeared. "The child has broken a flower," she came in and cried the child; "they won't scold you; I've told them that it was an accident and that you did not break the doll on purpose."

WINES OF THE ANCIENTS.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

"The tombs of Beni Hassan," said antiquary of Chicago, are interesting on account of their realistic paintings. In these tombs, which are 5000 years old, there are many pictures of drunkards. Drunken men, waving wine cups in both hands, are carried home by sneering slaves. Drunken women lurch through the streets, followed by little mocking children. All this, mind you, 5000 years ago.

The Romans used to serve at their banquets wines 80 to 100 years old. They would mix with these wines turpentine, resin and sea water. Thus, they thought, a fine flavor was gotten. "I once tasted a wine 200 years old. It was so thick we had to dig it out with a spoon. Its flavor was horrible. The turpentine, resin and sea water would, no doubt, have improved it."

COLERIDGE'S NEAT RETORT.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge was a man of most courteous mien, but could say the most unpleasant things in the most pleasant manner.

And this power was never more properly used than in a case in which I had the pleasure of appearing before him on behalf of the plaintiff while he said to me was a certain Mr. F.—certainly one of the roughest diamonds—almost an uncut one I should imagine, the English bar has ever produced.

This man wrangled over every triviality and unimportant point, and cracked on so volubly that Coleridge's patience was sorely tried. At last the chief justice interposed with the polite remark:

"Unfortunately for your case, Mr. F.—the documentary evidence does not bear out your contention."

The learned judge then, in extremely rude and offensive tones said "I say it does."

"O well, then, it would not be courteous of me to contradict you," replied Coleridge, with a graceful inclination of the head, he sank back on his cushions again.

Mr. F.—looked as if he had been left in the lurch. Even his brazen impudence recoiled under that sharp thrust.

Derry and Londonderry, famous summer resorts, where the potato, the foot wheel and the loom were first introduced into New England, and also noted as the birthplaces of such brave commanders as Reed, McClary, Greg and Stark, heroes of the Continental army. This beautiful farming section still retains the attractiveness which drew hither the early band of Scotch Presbyterians who settled this district. Six miles from Londonderry, the route enters Manchester, N. H., the Queen City of the Granite State on the banks of the Merrimack. Manchester is one of those thriving industrial marts

NEEDED REPAIRS BEGUN.

After the stretch of track between the Merrimack street power house turn-out and the Shawshine bridge had been torn up and replaced by new and heavier rail, the large gang of Boston and Northern track men opened up operations Monday on the track this side of the bridge and have torn up rails and sleepers from Brightwood's mill office to the turn-out at the depot. These were the old original street car rails and were greatly in need of repair.

This piece of track in particular was in a very uneven condition. A longer and much heavier T rail is to be laid in place of the old and when in place the riding for one short section will be greatly improved.

She was using oil to start a fire in her cook stove when a can in her hands caught fire and exploded throwing the burning kerosene over her clothes which were partially buried under her body.

DISSATISFIED WITH MAIL DELIVERY.

The residents of the Farnham district in the rear of Sutton's hill are for the most part greatly dissatisfied with the present arrangement of mail delivery. The rural carrier has such a long route to go over and the residents of this section being on the tail end of his route do not get their mail until late in the afternoon. They do not get their daily papers until a day and sometimes two days late. Very often a letter mailed in Lawrence does not reach the party to whom addressed for two days.

Formerly the residents of this district received their mail at the Centre when the local office was there and many of them would like to see it re-established. The residents in the River and Ford districts of course receive great benefit from the rural delivery. The residents of Farnham district would advocate two carriers in order that they may receive an earlier delivery.

At the present time many of them have their mail come to the sub station at the Centre, but the arrangement in regard to this office doesn't meet with satisfaction as the matter for the sub station is not brought direct to the Centre but carried over by the carrier until he reaches the Centre.

FORMERLY WORKED HERE.

The Fred Cooley mentioned in the following story of Tuesday, formerly worked in town and became quite well known to the young men. The story reads:

A mysterious stabbing affair, in which Fred Cooley of 17 Mystic street, Somerville, was the victim, is being investigated by the police of Medford. Cooley, who was dangerously stabbed in the head and ear, is at the Massachusetts General Hospital, on the dangerous list. He was conveyed to the hospital at an early hour this morning.

Although the police had been working on the case since it happened, early this morning, no information was given out until nearly the noon hour today.

Just how the stabbing occurred is a mystery, as Cooley has told a number of stories of how the affair happened. Two of which are: Whether or not the stabbing took place in Medford or Boston cannot yet be determined, as Cooley will not state where it occurred.

In all probability it took place on some street in Medford, as the police insist that it would be utterly impossible for Cooley to have been stabbed in Boston or any city adjacent to it, as when he was discovered he was completely covered with blood and very weak.

It is expected that the board of assessors will announce the tax rate for the ensuing year within a few days.
